Who are the target audiences/clients:
The target audience of the materials available to whoever has heard the name and looks it up are similar to any other institution: students interested in applying, design professionals interested in finding out more about the school and the work produced by the school, people interested in what UCLA's arts division would have to offer, and people interested in attending lectures given by specific teachers or professionals within the field of design or media arts.