Design Culture Now is the first survey of contemporary American design to span the disciplines of architecture, graphic design, and product design. It presents cutting-edge work in architecture, landscape architecture, urban design, theatrical design, fashion, typography, film graphics, products, and new media. Written and assembled by three leading critics and curators, Donald Albrecht, Ellen Lupton, and Steven S国务院, the book explores the design artifacts and practices that will define the twenty-first century.

Design Culture Now features work by individuals and small studios as well as by large firms and corporations, focusing on emerging designers. It also highlights established figures in architecture, landscape architecture, urban design, fashion design, and product design. It presents cutting-edge work in a range of design fields to span the disciplines of American design.

Smithsonian Institution
Princeton Architectural Press
Cooper-Hewitt National Design Museum

Cover Design: KARIM RASHID

ISBN 1-56898-218-6 $29.95

52995

9781568982182
DESIGN CULTURE NOW

Poster Products Typography Exhibitions Furniture Publications
Donald Albrecht | Ellen Lupton | Steven Skov Holt
Film Fashion New Media Architecture Theater Landscapes

TRIENNIAL NATIONAL DESIGN
Design Culture Now is the first survey of contemporary American design to span the disciplines of architecture, graphic design, and product design. It presents cutting-edge work in architecture, landscape architecture, urban design, theatrical design, fashion, typography, film graphics, products, and new media. Written and assembled by three leading critics and curators, Donald Albrecht, Ellen Lupton, and Steven Skov Holt, the book explores the design artifacts and practices that will define the twenty-first century.

Design Culture Now features work by individuals and small studios as well as by large firms and corporations. Focusing on emerging designers, it also highlights established figures influencing future generations. Over eighty individuals and firms are represented, including graphic designers Bruce Mau and Stefan Sagmeister; Nike’s Tinker Hatfield; style guru Martha Stewart; architects Neil M. Denari and Greg Lynn; film set designer Dante Ferretti; and fashion designer Kate Spade and Geoffrey Beene.

Design Culture Now accompanies the National Design Triennial: Design Culture Now, the first in a series of exhibitions exploring the impulses, issues, and ideas driving design today, organized by Cooper-Hewitt, National Design Museum, Smithsonian Institution. The only exhibition of its kind in the United States, the Triennial will present a critical overview of leading developments in American architecture and design every three years.
Design Culture Now

is the first survey of contemporary American design to span the disciplines of architecture, graphic design, and product design. It presents cutting-edge work in architecture, landscape architecture, urban design, theatrical design, fashion, typography, film graphics, products, and new media. Written and assembled by three leading critics and curators, Donald Albrecht, Ellen Lupton, and Steven Skov Holt, the book explores the design artifacts and practices that will define the twenty-first century.

Design Culture Now

features work by individuals and small studios as well as by large firms and corporations. Focusing on emerging designers, it also highlights established figures influencing future generations. Over eighty individuals and firms are represented, including graphic designers Bruce Mau and Stefan Sagmeister; Nike's Tinker Hatfield; style guru Martha Stewart; architects Neil M. Denari and Greg Lynn; film set designer Dante Ferretti; and fashion designer Kate Spade and Geoffrey Beene.

Design Culture Now

accompanies the National Design Triennial: Design Culture Now, the first in a series of exhibitions exploring the impulses, issues, and ideas driving design today, organized by Cooper-Hewitt, National Design Museum, Smithsonian Institution. The only exhibition of its kind in the United States, the Triennial will present a critical overview of leading developments in American architecture and design every three years.

Smithsonian Institution
Princeton Architectural Press
Cooper-Hewitt National Design Museum

Cover Design:

Karim Rashid
DESIGN CULTURE
NOW

Donald Albrecht | Ellen Lupton | Steven Skov Holt

NATIONAL DESIGN TRIENNIAL
POSTER
FURNITURE
PRODUCTS
PUBLICATIONS
FILM
ARCHITECTURE
EXHIBITIONS
THEATER
FASHION
NEW MEDIA
LANDSCAPES
TYPOGRAPHY

ISBN 1-56898-218-6 $29.95
Design Culture Now is the first survey of contemporary American design to span the disciplines of architecture, graphic design, and product design. It presents cutting-edge work in architecture, landscape architecture, urban design, theatrical design, fashion, typography, film graphics, products, and new media. Written and assembled by three leading critics and curators, Donald Albrecht, Ellen Lupton, and Steven Skov Holt, the book explores the design artifacts and practices that will define the twenty-first century.

Design Culture Now features work by individuals and small studios as well as by large firms and corporations. Focusing on emerging designers, it also highlights established figures influencing future generations. Over eighty individuals and firms are represented, including graphic designers Bruce Mau and Stefan Sagmeister; Nike's Tinker Hatfield; style guru Martha Stewart; architects Neil M. Denari and Greg Lynn; film set designer Dante Ferretti; and fashion designer Kate Spade and Geoffrey Beene.

Design Culture Now accompanies the National Design Triennial: Design Culture Now, the first in a series of exhibitions exploring the impulses, issues, and ideas driving design today, organized by Cooper-Hewitt, National Design Museum, Smithsonian Institution. The only exhibition of its kind in the United States, the Triennial will present a critical overview of leading developments in American architecture and design every three years.
design culture now

and fashion designer Kate Spade and Geoffrey Beene.

architects Neil M. Dencher and Craig Lynn; firm set designer Dante Ferretti; set design guru; Wilkes-B люdler; stylists Martin Margiela; and up-and-coming designers.

and designers, including graphic designers, were featured in the triennial's exhibitions.

Twenty-first century.

book explores the design artifacts and practices that will define the

and curators. Donald Albrecht, Ellen Lupton, and Steven Skoltz have urban design, interior design, fashion, graphic design, and product design.

is the first survey of contemporary American design to span the
national design triennial

Donald Albrecht
Ellen Lupton
Steven Skov Holt

Exhibitions
Publications
Furniture
Theater Landscapes
New Media
Fashion
Typography
Architecture
Products
Posters
Film
Design Culture Now is the first survey of contemporary American design to span the disciplines of architecture, graphic design, and product design. It presents cutting-edge work in architecture, landscape architecture, urban design, theatrical design, fashion, typography, film graphics, products, and new media. Written and assembled by three leading critics and curators, Donald Albrecht, Ellen Lupton, and Steven Skov Holt, the book explores the design artifacts and practices that will define the twenty-first century.

Design Culture Now features work by individuals and small studios as well as by large firms and corporations. Focusing on emerging designers, it also highlights established figures influencing future generations. Over eighty individuals and firms are represented, including graphic designers Bruce Mau and Stefan Sagmeister; Nike’s Tinker Hatfield; style guru Martha Stewart; architects Neil M. Denari and Greg Lynn; film set designer Dante Ferretti; and fashion designer Kate Spade and Geoffrey Beene.

Design Culture Now accompanies the National Design Triennial: Design Culture Now, the first in a series of exhibitions exploring the impulses, issues, and ideas driving design today, organized by Cooper-Hewitt, National Design Museum, Smithsonian Institution. The only exhibition of its kind in the United States, the Triennial will present a critical overview of leading developments in American architecture and design every three years.
DESIGN CULTURE NOW is the first survey of contemporary American design to span the disciplines of architecture, graphic design, and product design. It presents cutting-edge work in architecture, landscape architecture, urban design, theatrical design, fashion, typography, film graphics, products, and new media. Written and assembled by three leading critics and curators, Donald Albrecht, Ellen Lupton, and Steven Skov Holt, the book explores the design artifacts and practices that will define the twenty-first century.

DESIGN CULTURE NOW features work by individuals and small studios as well as by large firms and corporations. Focusing on emerging designers, it also highlights established figures influencing future generations. Over eighty individuals and firms are represented, including graphic designers Bruce Mau and Stefan Sagmeister; Nike’s Tinker Hatfield; style guru Martha Stewart; architects Neil M. Denari and Greg Lynn; film set designer Dante Ferretti; and fashion designer Kate Spade and Geoffrey Beene.

DESIGN CULTURE NOW accompanies the National Design Triennial: Design Culture Now, the first in a series of exhibitions exploring the impulses, issues, and ideas driving design today, organized by Cooper-Hewitt, National Design Museum, Smithsonian Institution. The only exhibition of its kind in the United States, the Triennial will present a critical overview of leading developments in American architecture and design every three years.
National Design Triennial

DESIGN CULTURE NOW

Steven Skov Holt
Donald Albrecht
Ellen Lupton

new media
typography
architecture
landscapes
publications
theater posters
exhibitions
National Design Triennial
furniture

fashion products
film
Design Culture Now is the first survey of contemporary American design to span the disciplines of architecture, graphic design, and product design. It presents cutting-edge work in architecture, landscape architecture, urban design, theatrical design, fashion, typography, film graphics, products, and new media. Written and assembled by three leading critics and curators, Donald Albrecht, Ellen Lupton, and Steven Skov Holt, the book explores the design artifacts and practices that will define the twenty-first century.

Design Culture Now features work by individuals and small studios as well as by large firms and corporations. Focusing on emerging designers, it also highlights established figures influencing future generations. Over eighty individuals and firms are represented, including graphic designers Bruce Mau and Stefan Sagmeister; Nike's Tinker Hatfield; style guru Martha Stewart; architects Neil M. Denari and Greg Lynn; film set designer Dante Ferretti; and fashion designer Kate Spade and Geoffrey Beene.

Design Culture Now accompanies the National Design Triennial: Design Culture Now, the first in a series of exhibitions exploring the impulses, issues, and ideas driving design today, organized by Cooper-Hewitt, National Design Museum, Smithsonian Institution. The only exhibition of its kind in the United States, the Triennial will present a critical overview of leading developments in American architecture and design every three years.

Cooper-Hewitt National Design Museum
Princeton Architectural Press
Smithsonian Institution

$29.95
ISBN 1-56898-218-6
9 781568982182
52995

cover design:

Karim Rashid
TURE NOW

National Design Triennial

Donald Albrecht

Steven Skov Holt

Ellen Lupton